About the floor

Beech is a hardwood species characterised by being exceptionally hard-wearing and therefore very suitable for flooring. When beech is toned with the colour Oyster Grey the floor appears with a touch of grey, beautifully enhancing the natural grain structure of the wood. The colour is ideal where a hint of colour is needed to complement the interior of the room.

Junkers solid hardwood flooring is produced and categorized in accordance with EN 13629, EN 14342 and Junkers own factory standard. The floors are made exclusively from solid hardwood and the images illustrate the colour, knots and structural graining variation characteristic for the specific wood species and grade.

Each image shows the average appearance of the grade. It is normal to see a variation in appearance between individual boards, staves and floors produced and installed at differing times.

Up to 5% of the staves may contain features of the next style.

Hardwood floors may fade and change colour over time, especially when exposed directly to sunlight.

Harmony

Variation

The actual colour on a wooden floor can vary from the colour shown in this style chart. This is due to the fact that colours are very difficult to reproduce online and in printed material. Junckers accepts no liability to discrepancies and we always recommend ordering a physical sample before placing an order.
